Important Event to Report: Status of the Cernavoda Nuclear Power Plant

SN Nuclearelectrica SA announces, in response to reports in the media, that at present—in accordance with previous statements—both reactors at the Cernavoda Nuclear Power Plant are safely shut down and are being maintained within safety parameters, with no associated operational or nuclear safety risks.

The CNE Cernavoda plant is designed with complex, redundant systems that ensure reactor cooling, and there is no risk associated with cooling the nuclear reactors while they are shut down.

Depending on how forecasts develop in the coming period, Nuclearelectrica will communicate—transparently and responsibly, based on reliable technical data, and in compliance with the requirements of a publicly traded company and applicable legislation—its operational decisions regarding reconnection to the National Power System.
